

Pediatric Therapies Social Communication

Understanding both verbal and nonverbal communication is key for your child to be able to develop relationships, interact in social situations and perform well in school.

If your child has any obstacle in their social communication, our team of dedicated therapists are here to help your child overcome it. Call us today to learn more.

NorthLakes COMMUNITY CLINIC

888.834.4551

nlccwi.org

Symptoms

- Unable to follow social rules
- Unengaged in conversations
- Not using language in proper context
- Challenges in making and keeping friends
- Problems communicating in social situations
- Unaware of the impact of one's actions on others
- Difficulty with telling and understanding stories
- Challenges with understanding implied messages
- Difficulty with interpreting verbal and nonverbal signals from others

Treatment

- Social skills training
- Sensory integration
- Speech-language therapy
- Developing primary reflexes
- Improving language pragmatics
- Support and training for parents
- Relationship-building interventions